Calcium and vitamin D is one of the essential factors for growth, and dairy products, especially milk, can be a natural and good source of these factors. Deficiency of these substances in growing age can lead to short stature, soft bones, osteoporosis, and other adverse effects. In addition, drinking milk has a positive effect on the immune system, but for some people, it has an unpleasant smell and taste. For this reason, some people prefer flavored milk, but flavored milk has some disadvantages due to the presence of preservatives and the use of powdered milk and sugar dissolved in it. A simple solution is the technology of flavoring milk by using flavored straws.
